

The Annual Copyright License for Curriculum & Instruction

A comprehensive licensing solution to support the reuse of high-quality copyrighted content in K-12 curriculum

The Annual Copyright License for Curriculum & Instruction provides:

- Broad coverage for print or digital uses in curriculum and instruction
- Time and cost savings through easy and immediate verification of rights
- An easy way to support copyright compliance

Designed to address the diverse licensing needs of educational technology (EdTech) providers, core and supplemental curriculum developers, and custom publishing companies, as well as U.S. State Departments of Education and K-12 school districts, the Annual Copyright License for Curriculum & Instruction from CCC provides print or digital rights enabling you to incorporate excerpts of high-quality fiction and nonfiction books, magazines, newspapers, online content, and other types of works in curriculum and instructional materials, as well as online platforms such as learning management systems and EdTech applications.

With the demand from schools, districts, and teachers for high-quality, standards-aligned materials to customize curriculum comes a set of licensing challenges for schools and curriculum developers about how to obtain permission to use the texts in instruction (both in-person and remote). Similar demands come from EdTech companies that want to include such content in their K-12 ELA applications and services and developers of open educational resources (OERs) who need to access high-quality authentic content to supplement curriculum. Additionally, securing copyright permissions on an individual basis at scale and in time for in-class and remote learning is difficult and time-consuming, especially as needs fluctuate.
