WHAT'S NEW WITH MARKETPLACE?

Marketplace: August 2021 Release

Marketplace (marketplace.copyright.com) is a self-service, ecommerce site that enables people in business, higher education, publishing and other markets to quickly search, find, and purchase permissions to use and share content to conduct business, enrich instruction, and request article reprints and ePrints from thousands of publishers around the world.

With the August 2021 release, we are making improvements to our academic and corporate Pay-Per-Use Services, formerly hosted on Copyright.com. New features and enhancements include:

- The ability to copy academic projects on Marketplace
- A new Order Activity Report in Manage Account
- Added messaging in Manage Account to notify academic customers if orders will be created in 10 days or less
- A print-friendly version of Order Details
- An improved workflow for academic customers when adding items to an academic project by taking them back to their most recent search results

New Features and Enhancements

Copy Academic Projects

Customers are now able to copy academic projects on Marketplace. A copy link will be available within each project that allows customers to rename the new project and identify any project-level details. See screenshots on following pages.
